Class History

Never has one section of our lives gone by so quickly. For many of us, all we have ever known is the VINEYARD. Each year, without fail, we would attend our elementary schools with the same kids (with the exception of those new ones who would land on the rock and those who got their ticket out). For the rest of us, it was the same old, same old.

In elementary school, we had security . . . we were with our friends and classmates . . . the ones that we had always been with. We had our separate plays and class trips. We had our sport rivalries, separate graduation and separate memories. But, beginning on September, 1993, we were forced together, the past eight years ended and we were broken up. Our homeroom was scrambled and our classmates seemed foreign. Those of us in sports got our first taste of "expectations". (The title "HELL WEEK" lived up to its name). We were no longer pampered, but rather were faced with high level of competition both in and out of school. Our coaches demanded more from us, teachers demanded more and parents demanded more. Our long time friends were split, cliques formed and everyone changed, but you.

Each of us found our own place though, our own style. Some pants got baggier and some hair grew longer. Talents that were unknown were revealed, limitations were accepted, but we still remained a class. To me, it is like the time when we all entered high school, we all took separate roads and some of us stayed together and some of us went on by ourselves. Without knowing it, we began to discover ourselves in our achievements and in our failures. From these, we were molded into who we have become today, but I am sure we will not stay this way long. We are still malleable and our choices after high school will sculpt us more. In these last two years, I've felt that all of our paths have slowly begun to merge again . . . merge again as we once were way back when. But, I don't see it lasting long. As we approach graduation, a dramatic split will once again occur. College, the work force, and travel will affect our paths and we will once again be traveling down separate paths.

Down the line, we'll look back in time, through the pages of this Yearbook, and look at the pictures of who we were and of the memories we had. Our first day, our Junior Prom, trips to England, Slovakia, Spain, France, and Germany, successes in the Vocational programs, cooking competitions, and even a Habitat for Humanity rebuilding effort in Florida after the hurricane were all events we will remember. Our Hockey team brought home a banner and gave a heroic run at the State Championship at Boston College. Our Soccer teams dominated by claiming banners and were only a goal short of continuing their victory march. Our Field Hockey team struggled but we all enjoyed watching them. And, we had two dramatic turn around seasons over our Senior Year. Basketball went from a poor 6-14 to 18-5, making a run for glory that was just stopped short. Our Football team, who ended 1995 with a 3-7 record, pulled it together for a 8-3 power house team which was just a yard short of beating Nantucket. This was a goal that we were never able to accomplish in our high school career.

As I write this Class History, I can't help but think how our lives are now. How simple it really all is and when we are older, we'll think back to the times, and the memories that we made here. We'll think about the people we met and the mistakes that we made and the impact that it had on us. And, maybe for a moment, we'll miss this place, or just the idea of it.

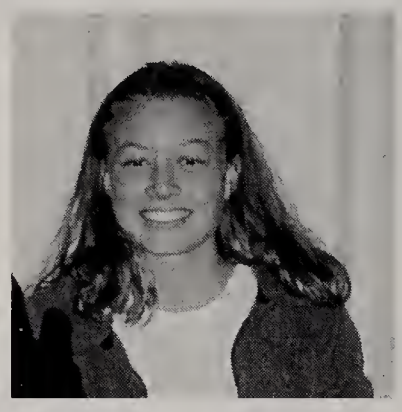
1997 YEARBOOK STAFF



EDITORS: Courtney Towne and Anna Walton

When we became co-editors of the yearbook, we didn't realize the amount of work that it would be. Our yearbook staff worked right up and sometimes through the deadlines, but everything got done. We pulled through as a group and with pizza parties and photo ops, we had a good time. Thank you for everything.

Courtney Towne and
Anna Walton

STAFF: H. Antik, J. Burgoyne, E. Carroll, D. Cote, D. DeBettencourt, K. DeBettencourt, M. Glavin, L. Greenlaw, K. Hughes, J. Hay-Sternbach, H. Keefe, B. Mayhew, H. Norton, I. Page, J. Rankow, H. Reis, S. Ryan, A. Sylva, C. Sylvia, P. The, Z. Tomasi, C. Towne, A. Walton, D. Waring, B. Whiting, L. Wilson, J. Young, J. Zaiko.

Yearbook Advisors: S. Mott and P. Ryan

We would like to thank Leslie Look, Bob Schellhammer, Ron Hall, Martha's Vineyard Times and parents who generously provided photos for this year's book. And, thanks to all of you who helped with the yearbook production.

They approached the world with an open mind, their attitude suggested they were taking it over.

William E. Brown jr.
Super Kid

From all the times when I stole my parents car and had parties at my house, When I had barbecues on the roof and made a marble track that went for miles, When I went snow boarding and combat sledding, When I played in a band and pretended to work at the Navigator, When I used to go fishing with my dad and conquered Outward Bound, When I went surfing in New Jersey and went to concerts with my uncle, and all the times I just chilled with the boys and fired mad snipes.
I'd like to think I had a good time.
And good luck to all the boys from the Old School.

As I left the Shore I was born. I left a translucent Phoenix. I moved on, towards all things Pertinent. After I left the shed, I raged within 007. I have looked south for answers. A spectacle appeared before me. "Welk Grey." And thought it I saw a ragged man. He moaned, "Do you guys want to die?" The answer came to me "Decently Ephemeral." I read that in a dream once. Smashing Pumpkins is where I saw it. Myself as who I was. I remember back in the day. Before I learned to be, I figured it out. The Ultimate proof. I used to say "Ride the Snake." But, the snake is dead — Thanks guys — Who could forget the crew. You all know, what time it is. My family, it's all good. I thank everyone that has helped me in Life, and damn all those who didn't. Much Love "No one is Normal"

From the Senior Class:

Each friend represents a world in us, a world possibly not born until they arrive, and it is only by this meeting that a new world is born.

~ Anais Nin ~

Every action or choice that you make on a daily basis, either adds to your self fulfillment, or chips away at it.

Leo and Janice Frame

Congratulations, Ian! Love, Mom, Dad & Sarah

COURTNEY: You are our shining star! Everybody wants to be a winner -everybody has a dream - we all need a shinin' star when things aren't what they seem. B. Adams
